Philip Irwin is a litigation attorney in the firm's Nashville office. Phil handles a wide variety of commercial litigation in Tennessee and across the nation. He has represented commercial lenders in numerous receivership proceedings and has extensive experience in defending eminent domain actions. He has defended and prosecuted products liability actions, defended actions on behalf of major U.S. automobile manufacturers, and overseen complex intra-company disputes among business partners, members, and shareholders. He works closely with his clients to provide them with the information and guidance needed to make informed decisions.
